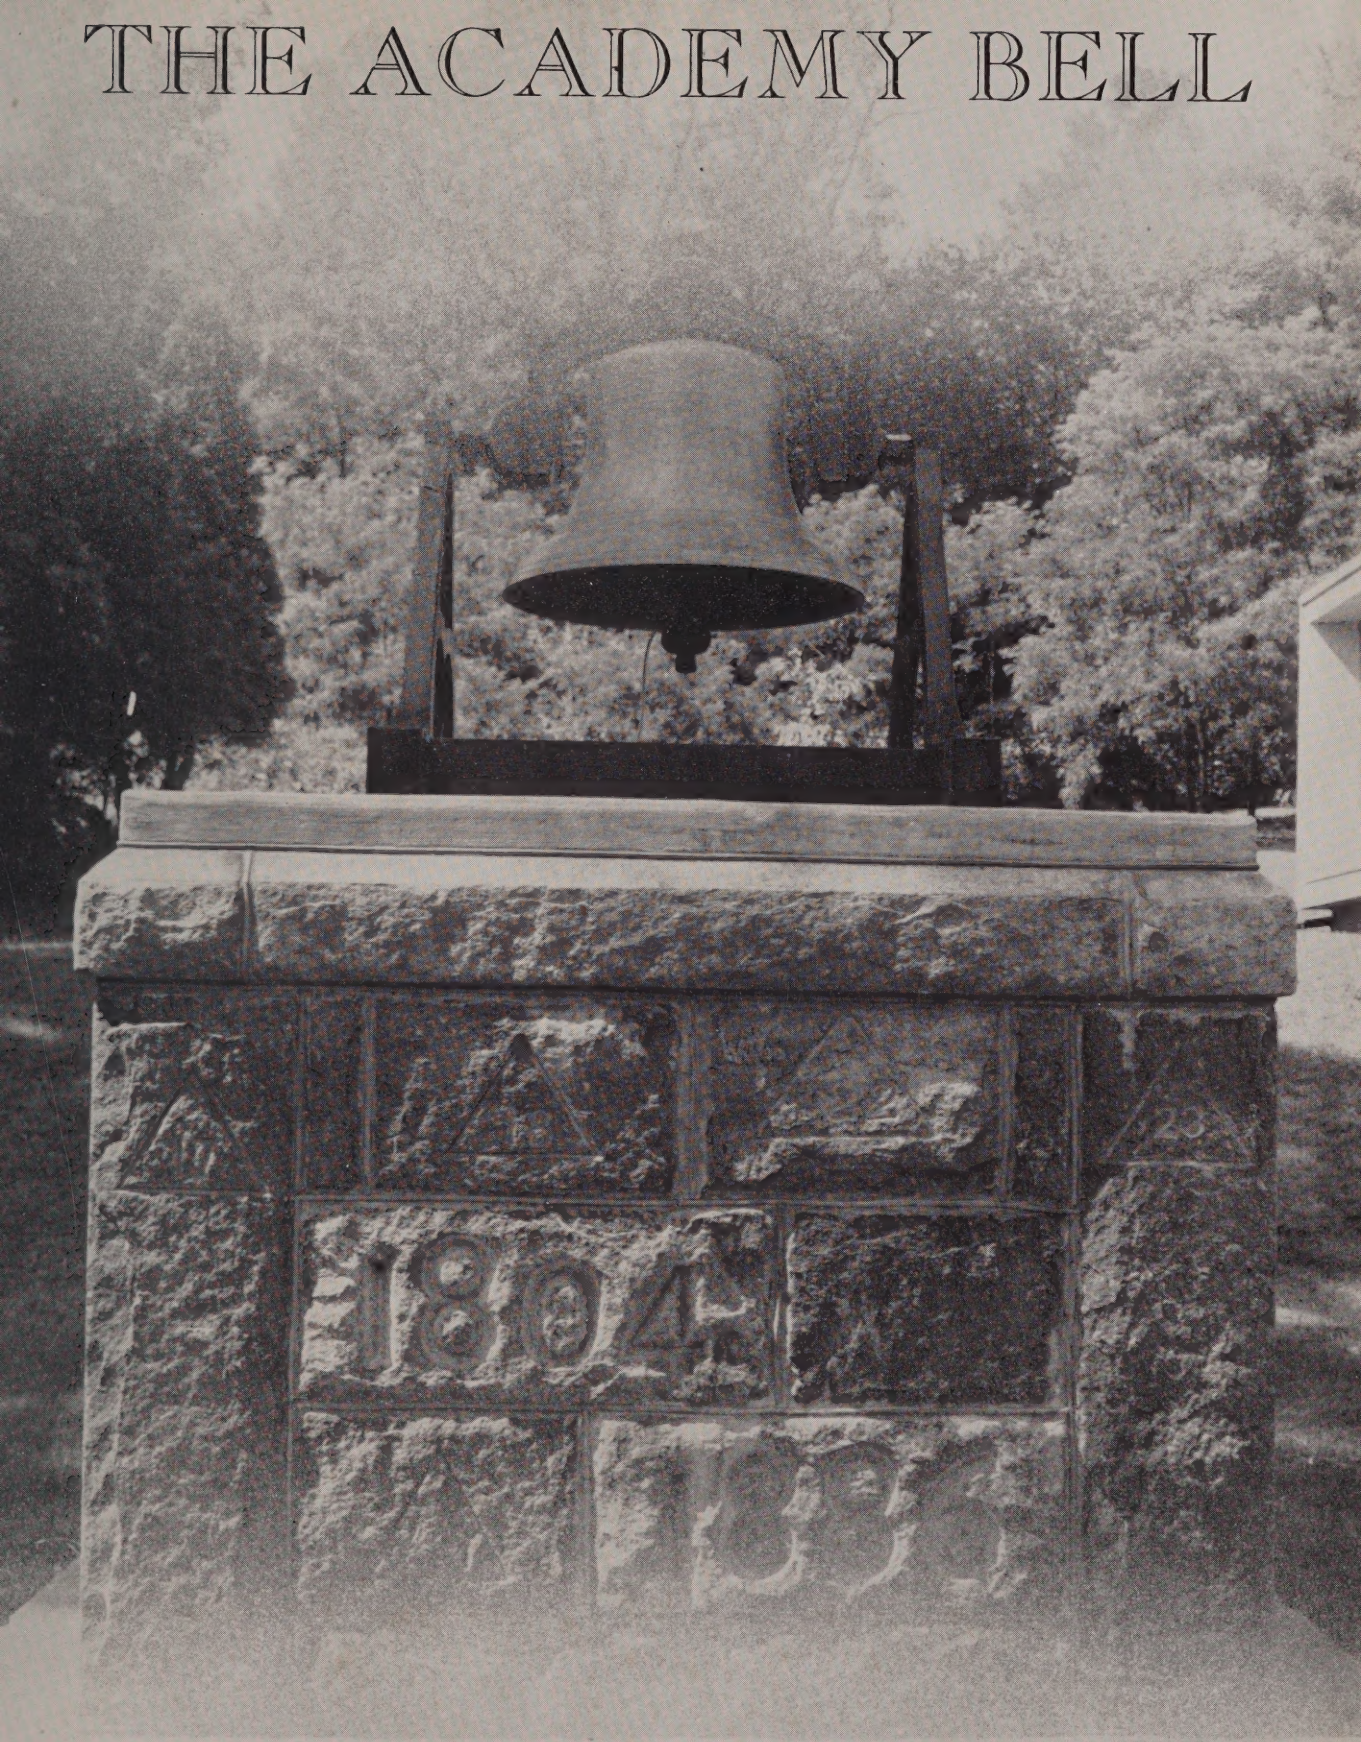
THE ACADEMY BELL



MONSON ACADEMY

CLASS OF 1959

FOREWORD

We, the staff, present for your approval the Academy Bell of 1959.

A yearbook is the fondest and most treasured memory of a student's year. It reminds us of the teachers, classmates, activities, events and sports which we knew and were part of as students. It is no small task to plan and to assemble a yearbook, as any staff member can tell you. Creating a book that a student will proudly show to his friends and relatives, is worth the many hours of energy and thought that is contained within.

We wish to take this opportunity to thank Mr. Dudley, our faculty advisor, and the rest of the faculty for their continued help and guidance throughout the school year. To the student body and our business associates, we wish to express our gratitude for their cooperation and support without which this yearbook would be impossible.

To the seniors, may you cherish throughout the years this Academy Bell, which may recall to you many of the pleasant memories of your life at Monson Academy.

PRESTO POUR MONPAIS

PREST POUR MON PAIS

The seal of Monson Academy is actually 225 years old and graced the halls of English noblemen in the time of King George III. Bearing the French motto "PREST POUR MON PAIS" (Ready for my Country), it has been taken from the coat-of-arms of Baron Monson, of Burton Hall, Lincoln, after whom the towns of Monson in Maine and Massachusetts were named. The Monson family came originally from Denmark, and their name was prominent in England as far back as 1378. The title was bestowed in 1728, although earlier Monsons were of lesser nobility. Formerly a medallion enclosing the tower of the old Academy Hall and the date of the founding of Monson Academy served as a symbol of the school. The loss of Academy Hall in February, 1953, insured the adoption of a new seal containing a motto. The suggestion was made that it might be appropriate for Monson to follow the example of Amherst College, with their Lord Jeff, and use the motto of their own Baron Monson. The idea was immediately accepted by the board of trustees.

HEADMASTER'S MESSAGE

It has been my duty and my privilege to talk with each member of the graduating class individually on many occasions during the past year. Some boys, naturally, need more counseling than others. By this time most of you have received acceptances from various colleges, and I know that many have been accepted by the college of their first choice.

Even though some of you may not have been accepted by the college of your first choice, it is important to bear in mind the fact that you can get an excellent education at almost any college if you make up your mind to do so. Your college may not be one of the "name" or prestige colleges, but it just has to do a good job in the educational field or it would not be in business very long. A good man with the right determination and push can usually get as good an education as he can at the better-known colleges and universities, if he makes up his mind to it.

However, I want to impress upon you the importance of getting off to a good start in whatever college you may enroll. Make the first semester of your freshman year the best possible, and you will find it much easier sailing during the remainder of your college career. Do not feel that it is necessary for you to sow your wild oats and show the world what a big shot you are during your first few months in college. If you do, you undoubtedly will not be around when the second semester starts. Thus you will not only have a most unfortunate personal experience that will be a black mark against you all your life, but you will also cast an unfavorable reflection upon the school which has recommended you for admission. You have a definite responsibility to succeed in college—not only for your own sake and the sake of your parents who are paying the bills, but also for the sake of the standing of the school and the boys who may make application for admission from this school in the future.

Good-bye and Godspeed!

Sincerely,

DR. GEORGE E. ROGERS

Headmaster

MR. AND MRS. ROGERS

We would like to take this opportunity to thank Mr. and Mrs. Rogers for the help and guidance they have given us during the past years. Their thoughtfulness and consideration at all times have helped us find solutions to many problems during our years at Monson. As a result of their sound guidance, we are sure that we will face our future problems with more confidence and self-assurance.

The Class of 1959

DEDICATION

We, the class of 1959, sincerely appreciate all that you, Mr. Hughes, have done for us in the past year.

We especially wish to thank you for giving us a much deeper understanding of the English language, without which it would not be possible for us to pursue our future endeavors.

Your encouragement, patience, understanding, and impartiality toward every member of our class has won you our deepest respect.

With sincerest appreciation we are proud to dedicate to you, Mr. Samuel J. Hughes, the ACADEMY BELL of 1959.

MR. SAMUEL J. HUGHES

SCHOOL HISTORY

Unlike most independent schools, Monson Academy does not owe its origin to a single founder. From the first it has been a co-operative effort. If we must point to a single great influence behind the school, we might go back to our first president of the Board of Trustees. It was the Reverend John Willard, D.D., of Stafford, Connecticut, who joined with the local innkeeper, Joel Norcross, and the local parson, Jesse Ives, in arousing public interest to the point of getting a state charter for the founding of Monson Academy. Mention should be made also of the Reverend Alfred Ely, one of the first Trustees and an active member from 1806 to 1866.

Dr. Willard, who graduated from Harvard in 1751, was the brother of the more famous President of Harvard (1781-1804) and was able to interest many of the leading scholars of the day in his Monson project. Under an act of 1797 the Massachusetts legislature had undertaken to endow with lands in the province of Maine any preparatory school built by the industry of the local people, if that particular area needed such educational facilities. For the location of such a school in this part of Western Massachusetts the citizens of Monson and Brimfield competed, and after some debate Monson was chosen.

The Act of Incorporation of Monson Academy was passed by the Massachusetts House of Representatives on June 21, 1804, and half the township of Monson, Maine, was granted as an endowment. A fund of over four thousand dollars was collected among local citizens and the first Academy building was opened in 1806.

Though the school was and still is closely associated with the local Congregational Church, there has been no official religious affiliation with any group. All creeds and races are welcome. This fact, no doubt, had a great deal to do with the school's rapid rise to fame. The founding fathers had hoped for a school which would attract students from all over the state, in addition to functioning as a secondary school for the Monson area. In a very few years it had a national reputation; after its first quarter-century, students were coming from all over the world.

There is no space here to go into the many details of Monson's history. We can, however, note a few landmarks. The first headmaster, Simeon Colton, who left after his first year, in 1807, returned in 1821 and stayed nine years.

This was the period of Monson's beginning as a great school.

During the decade 1820-1831 the school graduated such famous men as Sophocles of Harvard, America's greatest classical scholar, who came to Monson from Smyrna in Asia Minor; Dr. Henry L. Barnard, the first United States Commissioner of Education, regarded as second only to Horace Mann in the development of the American public school; Professor W. A. Larned, late professor at Yale, and the Reverend Richard S. Storrs, D.D., of Brooklyn, New York, commonly and affectionately referred to in those days as "Prince of Preachers." A glance at the catalogues of the eighteen-twenties will show students from England, Greece, Turkey, and many parts of North America. Men went out from the Academy to open up the West and carried the Gospel to the South Seas. The Reverend Cushing Eels and the Reverend Charles B. Summer were instrumental in founding, respectively, Whitman College in Washington and Pomona College in California.

The golden age of the school was the half-century between 1835 and 1855. This was, indeed, the period of the greatest flowering of the New England academy, and many fine old schools that made history are no longer in existence. Only a few of the private schools survived the rival growth of public schools. In the middle of the last century, however, Monson built up prestige that was to carry it through the years right up to the present day, though no longer an academy for young ladies and gentlemen, but in its new role as a preparatory school for boys.

In 1835, Charles Hammond, of Union, Connecticut, entered Monson as a student. He was zealous and idealistic, one of his idols being Dr. Arnold of Rugby. In due course he was graduated and went to Yale, but in 1839 was back in Monson as principal. He served as principal from 1839 to 1852, and again from 1863 to 1878—a total of twenty-four years. This great man educated more distinguished personages than many a college has turned out. He towered above his fellows in the educational field. All kinds of reforms were introduced in his day, and the old dictum of "spare the rod and spoil the child" was abandoned. Like Thomas Arnold, he preferred to trust his students' honor, and he once said he would do his best to "make Monson a smaller Rugby." During his administration the enrollment of the school was frequently above three hundred, drawn from all parts of the world.

Over a hundred years ago, in 1847, the first Chinese students ever to come to the United States enrolled at Monson Academy. Nearly a generation later the first Japanese students came, and until the end of the century there was always a fair sprinkling of Orientals amongst the student body.

The physical plant of the school, in the meantime, increased with the student body. In 1819 the first dormitory was built for the boarding students, near the present site of Cushman Hall. In 1824 the first laboratory was erected and expensively equipped with apparatus "specially imported from England." The site of this old laboratory, one of the first in the country, is now occupied by the Holmes Gymnasium. In 1845, at a cost of four thousand dollars, Dr. Hammond had the entire school renovated and modernized and spent further thousands to re-equip the English department. As in the case of the original building, this large sum was raised by the townsfolk.

During this golden age of the academy, many great men were graduated from Monson. The class of 1850 was particularly brilliant. In that year Jacob Strong left to enter Williams College, and eventually he became associate justice of the United States Supreme Court. The brilliant young Chinese, Wong Afun, left Monson to enter Edinburgh University and to become eventually one of his country's greatest doctors. Another young Chinese, Yung Wing, was graduated, only to return to America some years later as Commissioner of the Chinese Educational Commission and as Chinese Minister to the United States. Only two years later, in 1852, Henry Billings Brown, another future United States Supreme Court Justice, was graduated. Judge Reuben Chapman, a Trustee from 1828 to 1873, and later became Chief Justice of the Massachusetts Supreme Court. The Reverend James Tufts, who attended the Academy in his early teens, later became Vice-President, and for one year Acting President, of the University of Chicago.

The Civil War caused a temporary closing of the Academy in 1862, but it reopened the following year after two additional wings had been added to the old building.

This brief survey would not be complete without a few words about the missionary endeavors of Monson graduates. The Reverend James L. Merrick, one of the first American missionaries to Persia, was graduated in 1826, and he later established an endowment fund, the Persian Fund. Gilbert Rockwood, class of 1834, went to the South Seas, and William Benton, class of 1840, died while preaching the Gospel to the Zulus in South Africa. It was the work of such men that helped to attract students to Monson from so many parts of the world.

The rise of free secondary education in the latter part of the last century did a great deal to decrease the need for a private school. Some establishments, including Monson Academy, served the purpose of the local high school in many rural communities. Until regular high schools were built, these private schools accepted local students, whose tuition was paid by the town. This situation somewhat altered the character of the older academies, but in many cases it was the means of survival.

A disastrous fire in 1886 completely destroyed the old Academy Hall, but later in the same year a more substantial granite-and-brick building was erected. The Holmes Gymnasium was built in 1900 by Miss Esther R. Holmes in memory of her father, Cyrus W. Holmes, Jr., and Cushman Hall in 1904 by Thaddeus L. Cushman in memory of his nephew, Frank Chapin Cushman. An older dormitory, Hammond Hall, was at the same time torn down to make room for a headmaster's residence, Hammond Place. Cushman Memorial Field was given in 1911 by Edward C. Cushman and Rufus P. Cushman as a memorial to Grace Sedgwick Cushman and Frank Chapin Cushman.

After the First World War the town of Monson finally decided to build a separate high school. This action meant that virtually all of the Academy students would transfer to the new institution. Consequently, the school was again temporarily closed in 1923, while arrangements were made to revert to the old status of a century before. During the next two years the Trustees granted the use of the Academy buildings to the town for use as a high school. In 1926 Monson Academy was reopened as a purely college preparatory school for boys. The new headmaster, Mr. Bertram A. Strohmeier, announced in the 1926 catalogue that the school would be "developed on an American adaptation of the English house plan. By this arrangement the boys live in small groups in separate houses under the immediate care of one or more masters." In keeping with this plan an additional dormitory, Morris House, was deeded to the Academy by Miss Esther R. Holmes in 1927, and yet another house, the Homestead, in 1937, through the generosity of Miss Hattie F. Cushman.

No historical sketch of Monson Academy would be quite complete without a tribute to Thaddeus L. Cushman, who was a member of the Board of Trustees for thirty-eight years, Treasurer for thirty-six years, and Secretary-Treasurer of the Monson Alumni Association for forty years. His deeds of unselfishness and benevolence afforded him great pleasure and satisfaction, besides providing necessities and comforts to others less fortunate than he.

Mr. Strohmeier was succeeded in 1935 by Dr. George E. Rogers, under whose administration the size of the student body has greatly increased. Plans are now under consideration for the centralization of the school plant in the not-too-distant future.

In 1938 the Holmes Gymnasium was enlarged. In the same year the disastrous hurricane struck Monson with full force. The beautiful elms that lined Main Street and surrounded the Academy buildings were uprooted by the force of the gale.

In the immediate postwar years, the Academy, sensing its obligation, admitted many returning veterans in order that they might continue their interrupted educations.

In 1947 the Academy acquired two additional buildings. Through the generosity of the family of Mrs. Rufus P. Cushman, Chapin House was added to the Academy and serves as a dormitory. In addition, the home of Miss Adelaide Wingate, now called Holmbrook, was acquired. It is now serving as a dormitory and dining hall. In 1948, the Academy constructed the new Cushman Memorial Field, which replaced the old field destroyed in the 1938 hurricane. An additional playing area was constructed on a lower level in 1957.

On February 23, 1953, a disastrous fire swept the Academy Hall. Despite this tragedy the Academy continued to function for the remainder of the year. Both faculty and students demonstrated hardihood in carrying on in view of extremely difficult conditions. Plans were immediately made to replace Academy Hall. It was decided that the new location would be at the top of the hill on High Street, with the view in mind of centralizing the location of the campus. The new, modern Academy, called Alumni Hall, was completed and ready for occupancy by September, 1954. Through the ceaseless efforts of alumni, staff, and friends of the Academy the new building became a reality.

The new Alumni Hall was officially dedicated upon the occasion of the school's sesquicentennial celebration, on October 9, 1954. At this time leaders in the educational field gathered at Monson to celebrate the dual occasion and to take cognizance of the role of the private school in America. Upon this occasion the principal speaker was Dr. Charles W. Cole, President of Amherst College. Sharing the speaking honors with Dr. Cole was the Honorable Thomas C. Clark, Associate Justice, United States Supreme Court.

In 1956 the Board of Trustees purchased the large colonial house and property just north of Alumni Hall for use as the Headmaster's residence. For many years it was the home of the late Robert H. Cushman and the late William H. Hodgman, both of whom had been long-time members of the Board of Trustees. Hammond Place, which had served as the Headmaster's residence since 1904, was converted into a dormitory for two masters and fourteen boys.

Adversity and misfortune have been challenged and overcome. A new Academy Hall has emerged from ashes. Whatever distinction Monson Academy may achieve in the future will be due in large degree to the completely selfless efforts of the Headmaster, Dr. George E. Rogers.

CLASS PROPHECY

It is 1984 and the Class of 1959 of Monson Academy has held its 25 year reunion. It was held at one of New England's newest and most exclusive prep schools, Hughes Academy.

Registration took place at Goodless Hall, a beautiful building of Vermont marble, designed by the noted architect Steve Schnitzer. It overlooks an artificial lake and beautiful landscaped grounds and was the gift of Dr. Neal Goodless who is a very famous plastic surgeon. As we registered we were greeted by the headmaster Richard Curtis and the Directors of Admissions Drake Chisholm and Tom Ives. Around the room we discovered several men from the class of '59 who are now on the faculty of Hughes Academy. Marshall Reilly and Don Roy are the heads of the English Department and they were engaged in a heated discussion on the relative merits of John Keats. We also saw George O'Brien and Jack Rotchford of the History Department and Andy Coval, the Academy Chaplain discussing the United States' Latin American policy with Jim Bertrand. Jim, a career diplomat with the State Department, is the Under Secretary of State for Latin American Affairs. Beecher Wooding, the head of the Math Department and had become famous for computing infinity, was talking with his assistants Dave Rosenlund and Ken Schliphack. We discovered that several other members of the Class of '59 were also on the faculty of Hughes Academy. Leo Santucci and Tom Grogan are the heads of the Physics Department and Joe Magnano of the Biology Department has developed a new law of evolution. Frank Sears is the French instructor and Gerry Mastroianni is in charge of the Chemistry Department.

We wandered over to the Administration Building which was designed by Francis Gregory and was built by Meyer Blumenthal's Construction Company. In the building Directory we found many more members of the Class of 1959. Denis Kaufman is the Dean of Weekends, Ed Johnson the Social Director, Gerry Enowitch is the Academy Disciplinarian, Jim Sousa is the Academy Nurse and Warren Cresswell is in charge of the Academy Laundry. While looking at the Directory we were greeted by Don Campion, Chief of Sanitation, and his assistant Roger Kenyon. They had just come from a conference with Dick Knight and Gordon Todd who are consulting Sanitation Engineers.

After the luncheon, prepared by the Chef Mike Angelo, in Osgood Hall, which was the gift of Greg Osgood, we went to Palmer Auditorium, the gift of Howard

Palmer, a well-known industrial engineer. There was entertainment here provided by various members of the Class of '59. Bob Meehan and his world famous all-girl orchestra were joined by the jazz-combo of Ralph Shumway. Also on the program were Jim Mazza, the concert guitarist and Eric Haase, the soloist of the Boston Symphony. In another room of the auditorium the world champion pitch team of Charlie Sargent and Pete Pagones were giving lessons to all who were interested.

In Ernst Gymnasium, a gift of Andy Ernst, we scanned the list of coaches and athletic instructors. The Director of Athletics is Steve Schwartz. He is assisted by Dan Sullivan as Football Coach, John Bacon as Soccer Coach, Ken Clark as Swimming Coach, Bill Humes as Lacrosse Coach, Wilfred Bourque and Neil Harris as Baseball Coaches and John Mailman and Maurice "The Rocket" Raizin as Hockey Coaches.

Several members of the Class of 1959 were unable to attend the reunion for one reason or another. Jim Blair was having labor troubles at his textile mill. Bob Berry and Owen McGuil were busy at the state capital getting new routes for their Blue Goose Bus Lines. Tom Cotter and Dave Gowen were busy with their book publishing business. Tom Derosier and Hank Lenaghan were in Tibet opening a new restaurant and motel. Dick Boudreau regretted his being absent, but he was busy in Las Vegas receiving a divorce from his sixth wife. Bob Burns was unable to attend because of his job as a National League Baseball umpire. Bowles Ford sent word from Paris that he was busy preparing his fall line of men's clothes. Joe Manzi was busy on the carnival circuit with his thrill drivers and Barry Moss was busy playing tournament golf. Dante Lombardi sent word from Mars that his new movie The Spider Visits Mars was taking longer than he anticipated. Another famous Hollywood producer, Roger Patnaude and his big star Jim Power are on tour publicizing their new movie Tall Stranger. Another entertainer from '59, Paul Sheridan couldn't get away from his TV commitments. Steve Rabinovitz sent regrets from Berlin where he was tied up with a political campaign. Rollin Smith found it impossible to leave his Rum Plantation in Cuba and Don Sylvester is still playing the Children's Marching Song. Ed Strauss found it impossible to leave his brewery because of labor problems.

At the end of the reunion, those present agreed that they had enjoyed themselves and all were looking forward to their 30 year reunion.

SEASON SUMMARY

Monson Academy enjoyed its most successful football campaign in many years. When the Worcester game was finally over, the team's record was an impressive 7-0 for the season. Here is a brief summary of the season.

MONSON vs LAWRENCE

The first game of the 1958 Footabll season was against Lawrence Academy and resulted in an impressive 30-15 victory. Monson opened the scoring when quarterback Bill Lunardini pitched a short pass to Coval in the first quarter. Later in the first half Reilly broke loose for the first of his three touchdown runs. In the second quarter Lawrence let go with a passing attack and scored two touchdowns, making the score 16-15 at halftime, in Monson's favor. In the second half Monson registered a fine defensive performance and held Lawrence scoreless while they scored two more touchdowns.

MONSON vs AVON OLD FARMS

For their second game of the season, the Monson team was the guest of Avon Old Farms. The result was a one-sided 30-0 victory for Monson, in a game which featured outstanding defensive play. Desroches opened the game with a 45-yard run deep into Avon territory. Coval then broke loose for the first score. Later in the first half Coval scored on a 75-yard run, only to be called back because of a penalty. Lunardini opened the second half by plunging over for a touchdown. He was closely followed by Reilly, who scored the third Monson touchdown of the game. Late in the game Tyburski intercepted an Avon pass and went all the way for another touchdown. Outstanding defensively were Cotter, Mazza, Bourque and Rotchford.

MONSON vs STOCKBRIDGE

For their third outing, Monson journeyed to Stockbridge looking for another win. They weren't disappointed. They won 36-12. Reilly was responsible for the first two Monson touchdowns. The defensive unit showed their stuff as linebacker Ed Johnson leaped high to intercept a Stockbridge pass and ran untouched into the end zone. Lenaghan climaxed the first half by intercepting another Stockbridge pass and running 60 yards for a touchdown. Desroches opened the second half by running 70 yards on a punt return for a touchdown. Late in the game Stockbridge connected on several desperation passes and in the final seconds drove over from the one-yard line to score its second and final touchdown.

MONSON vs TRINITY FRESHMEN

Monson's fourth game of the season was played on the campus of Trinity College. Again the team brought home a victory, the score being 28-0. Trinity was an early threat, but that was thwarted by the defensive work of Campion, McCrystal and Sullivan. The first Monson drive was climaxed by Reilly going over the goal line from 20 yards out. Coval, in a burst of speed, swept end and sprinted 50 yards for Monson's second touchdown. Late in the second half Reilly broke loose at midfield and raced 50 yards for his second touchdown, aided by excellent downfield blocking. The second half was featured by a display of fine defensive work by both squads.

MONSON vs TILTON

In its fifth straight victory, Monson handed Tilton a crushing defeat, 42-0. Reilly, Coval and Clark shared the scoring honors. Coval garnered the first touchdown and soon after that Reilly scored eight more points. Reilly again scored on a brilliant assist from quarterback Lunardini. Tilton was then stalled by the Monson defense and was forced to punt on the fourth down. Cotter ran the ball back to the Tilton 40-yard line, and then Lunardini passed to Clark on the 20-yard line. Reilly then scored his third touchdown of the afternoon. Again, at the opening of the second half, Reilly ran 40 yards for his fourth touchdown. Shortly thereafter Tilton was again forced to punt and Lunardini took over and passed to Clark for the final score of the game.

MONSON vs COAST GUARD

The toughest opposition of Monson during the season was the Coast Guard. But Monson came through with a 16-0 victory. In this game, Monson unveiled a new spread offensive which succeeded in splitting the rugged Coast Guard defense. Reilly was responsible for the first Monson touchdown, but from that point on, the game was a tough defensive match. In the second period Lunardini hit Harris with a long pass and Harris ran for the second and last touchdown. In the second half, the Monson defense, led by Campion and Rotchford dropped a Coast Guard back in his own end for a two-point safety.

MONSON vs WORCESTER

Monson ended its season at home with a 28-8 victory over Worcester. The victory gave Monson a triumphant undefeated, untied season. Monson scored early when Lunardini hit Harris with a pass for the conversion. A Worcester pass play clicked for their only touchdown. With the score tied 8-8, Lunardini again threw to Harris for another touchdown. A Worcester threat was stopped early in the second half when Monson intercepted a Worcester pass in midair. Soon afterward Reilly scored his first touchdown of the game. Then Reilly made a 50-yard run, aided by the fine downfield blocking of Mazza and Bourque, and scored another touchdown.

MONSON vs WILLISTON

After having elected Harvey Schmidt as Captain the previous day, Monson started its 1958 season at home against a strong Williston team. The visitors scored early and led, 1-0, until the second period when Monson's tricky outside left, Ken Schliphack, tied the score after faking past their goalie. Neither team could score in the third quarter and the game looked like a tie until Williston gained a streak of luck in the fourth period, scoring three fast goals. Monson finally began to get rolling and Bob Nichols hit the nets for a second tally, but as time disappeared the score remained 4-2.

MONSON vs SUFFIELD

The "Terrors" looking forward to a win traveled to Suffield for the second game. Suffield scored in the first quarter, but did not retain the lead for long. Monson's alert center, John Bacon, received a pass from the wing and placed a long shot past the goalie. This score remained until Suffield scored in the second quarter. Suffield could not score after that, mainly because of the fine work of Monson's three alternating fullbacks; Smith, Collins and Pierson.

MONSON vs WILBRAHAM

In their third game, Monson was host to Wilbraham, who at that time were undefeated. The visitors scored twice, in both the first and second quarters. Also in the second period, John Bacon scored Monson's only goal of the game. Wilbraham scored twice in the second half for their final goals of the game. The final score was 6-1. All agreed that Monson just had a bad day and could not seem to get the ball in Wilbraham's goal. Excellent defensive work by halfbacks Bogacz and Strauss kept the game from being a rout.

MONSON vs WORCESTER

The next game saw the "Terrors" facing a powerful Worcester team. The two old rivals played a rough first half without scoring. In the third quarter speedy "Buddy" Sears stole the ball from the Worcester defense and booted in Monson's first goal, but soon afterwards Worcester tied the score. It appeared that the game would end in a tie, but with 22 seconds remaining in the fourth quarter, Ken Schliphack sent the ball into the crowded Worcester goal to win the game for Monson, 2-1. Fullbacks Smith and Collins did an excellent job in holding back the Worcester line.

MONSON vs CUSHING

Monson faced Cushing Academy on a cold rainy Saturday. Neither team scored until the second quarter when Cushing tallied twice. In the second half the visitors sent in a fresh line and scored two goals. The weather prevented Monson from holding on to the slippery ball long enough to score. Halfbacks Bogacz, Schmidt and Strauss kept the line moving and did well on defense.

MONSON vs POMFRET

The "Terrors" went to Pomfret with high hopes of winning number two. Again the weather was against us and Monson, not used to muddy fields, could not get off to a good start. Pomfret scored early in the first half but this lead seemed too slim to remain. However, as the game went on and footing became worse, goal shots became scarce. When the final whistle blew, the score still stood 1-6. Both wings, Sears and Schliphack, played a good hard game and goalie Greg Osgood did a fine job around the slippery cage. The "Terrors" missed the good support of center John Bacon who was out for the rest of the season with a knee injury.

MONSON vs AVON OLD FARMS

Avon was host to Monson in the seventh game. The "Terrors" were losing spirit and again got off to a poor start. Avon scored in the second quarter but Monson began to get rolling. The ball was constantly in front of Avon's goal throughout the second half but just could not put it in there. The final score was a disappointing 0-1.

MONSON vs MOUNT HERMON

In their eighth contest, Monson faced the powerhouse, Mount Hermon. Since both teams started with equal power the Monson "Terrors" gave up only two goals during the first half. But due to constant replacement with fresh players our defense weakened. True to tradition Monson, after a few substitutes was back on her feet fighting hard. The final score was 0-8.

MONSON vs WATKINSON

The "Terrors," still burning after four defeats, journeyed to Watkinson where they found a water-logged field. Since action was slow because of conditions during the first quarter, Coach Roan moved center half Schmidt up to center forward at the beginning of the second period — five minutes later Schmidt took a high cross from the wing and headed it in. Watkinson managed to gain a goal in the early part of the second half, Schmidt with a driving determination to win the game placed a long one in the goal from forty yards out.

This year's season has been one of the best seasons that Monson has had. A great deal of appreciation and thanks go to Coach Roan and manager Edward Trewhella for their fine job in leading the team, not to forget Captain Harvey Schmidt who kept his great team working together at their peak against tough opposition.
